

Collab: a collaborative workspace in Manhattan – probably the best workplace ever

The folks at MakeZine published this video showing Collab, a Manhattan-based workspace where co-working is a common practice.

I'm a long-time fan of co-working and have been following co-working expert Massimo Carraro and his CoWO project growing up, so I'm happy to see CoWo people around the world gathering together.

I strongly believe that co-working is the way to go, not just because of the economic downturn we're now facing: it's the right way to get creative people together, share places and facilities, get more from brains than the mere sum of people.

Via [Makezine and Collab]