

Knight Ridder (back then a media behemoth) produced a video that, back in 1994, depicts a tablet delivering news...

We may still use computers to create information but we'll use the tablet to interact with information.

It's an interesting piece of history since it talks, a long time before iPads and Google News debates, about readers' loyalty to paper, conventional media and trusted sources.

Important issues that aren't, as of today, solved.

Source: [PaleoFuture]